Amendment of Contract Labour (Abolition and Regulation) Act, 1970

1336. SHRI RAMACHANDRA KHUNTIA: Will the Minister of LABOUR be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government intend to amend the Contract Labour (Abolition and Regulation) Act, 1970 and Industrial Dispute Act, 1926 to the advantage of industrialist or employer in the name of the investment without looking to the protection of workers; and

(b) whether Government are thinking to consult all Central Trade Unions before bringing the legislation in the Parliament?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF LABOUR AND EMPLOYMENT (SHRI MUNI LALL): (a) and (b) In the wake of economic liberalization as well as judgements of various courts, proposals have been received from social partners to bring about changes in the Contract labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970 and the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. The changes or amendments to be made, if any, after taking into consideration all relevant factors, have not yet been finalised.
